CHIP Cost Sharing Limits

Effective July 1, 2022

*The federal poverty level (FPL) refers to income guidelines established annually by the federal government.

Per 12-month term of coverage.

What are cost sharing caps?

The member guide you got from us when you join the CHIP program has a form to help you track your CHIP expenses. To make sure that you do not go over your cost-sharing limit, please list CHIP expenses on this form. The welcome letter in the enrollment packet tells you when you can mail the form back to CHIP.

If you lose your welcome letter, please call the CHIP Help Line at 1-800-647-6558. They will tell you what your cost-sharing limit is. There are no co-payments required for CHIP Perinate Newborn members.

When you reach your yearly cap per term of coverage, please send the form to the CHIP Enrollment Broker and they will let us know. We will send a new member ID card. This new card will show that no co-payments are due when your child gets services. If you need help understanding co-payments, please go to our website at ParklandHealthPlan.com, or call us at the toll-free number listed on your/your child's ID card.

What are the CHIP Perinate newborn benefits?

Parkland Community Health Plan provides CHIP Perinate newborn benefits as outlined below. There is no lifetime maximum on benefits; however, 12-month enrollment period for lifetime limitations do apply to certain services, as specified in the following chart. Copays do not apply to the Parkland Community Health Plan CHIP Perinate newborn members.

How do I get these services for my child?

You should see your child's primary care provider to ask about medical services. To learn more about how to obtain these or other services, please use the website (ParklandHealthPlan.com) or call us at the toll-free number on your child's ID card.

What benefits does my baby receive at birth?

Your baby will receive the same benefits as all other the CHIP members, except there are no co-pays while on CHIP Perinatal.
